SCPHD To Host Several Back-To-School Vaccine Clinics Throughout Southern Idaho

SOUTH CENTRAL IDAHO – School is almost back in session all over Southern Idaho. South Central Public Health District (SCPHD) wants to ensure your child's health and safety during this school year with our comprehensive back-to-school vaccination clinics. Our nurses and customer service representatives will be available to look up your child's vaccine records and provide any vaccines that they might need. SCPHD can bill to private insurance or Medicaid. For those who are uninsured, we will work with you on low-cost options in order to provide vaccines for your children.

“Sending your child back to school with up-to-date immunizations is the single most effective way to prevent outbreaks of serious illnesses like whooping cough and measles. This ensures our kids stay healthy, in school, and ready to learn,” said Melinda Bauman, Registered Nurse and SCPHD Immunization Coordinator.

Vaccines will be offered based on recommendations for your child's age, with some K-12 clinics available. No appointment is necessary for these clinics. Additionally, children under the age of 18 must have parental consent. If you are unable to attend our school clinics, contact an SCPHD office to schedule an appointment.
